Message From Founder Director Rita DSouza

Is your child locked up inside a cell?

Excessive digital screen time can significantly impact preschoolers' development, potentially leading to delays in language and social skills, attention problems, reduced physical activity, and even behavioral issues, as they miss out on crucial face-to-face interactions and hands-on learning opportunities necessary for early childhood development; experts generally recommend limiting screen time for young children and prioritizing interactive play instead.

Key impacts of digital screens on preschoolers:

a) Cognitive Development
b) Delayed language development
c) Lower cognitive abilities
d) Social Development
e) Reduced social interaction
f) Increased social isolation
g) Reduced physical activity
h) Emotional and Behavioral Impacts
i) Difficulty with self-regulation
j) Prioritize real-world play

My twin boys are studying LKG in this school. They really enjoy going to the school and will come back home with a big smile. Here kids are occupied with lots of activities and events at school as part of their learning. All the teachers and staff are very friendly and caring towards the kids. Their way of teaching is very good and enjoyable, and we can see nice progress in kids. Special thanks to principal Ashwini mam for being very kind and supportive from the beginning when we entered this school last year. Also appreciating their efforts for celebrating each and every festival at school which is really a great job and helps kids to understand the values of those.

Positive Parenting: Nurturing Young Minds with Love and Guidance

Parenting is a beautiful journey filled with love, challenges, and endless learning. Positive parenting focuses on building a strong, healthy relationship with children through patience, understanding, and encouragement.

At the preschool stage, children are curious, sensitive, and eager to explore. They need a nurturing environment where they feel safe, valued, and heard. Simple actions, such as listening to their thoughts, appreciating their efforts, and setting gentle yet firm boundaries, go a long way in shaping their emotional and social development.

One of the key aspects of positive parenting is modeling the behavior we want to see in our children. When we practice kindness, respect, and self-regulation, our little ones learn to do the same. Encouraging independence, praising progress, and offering a comforting presence during meltdowns help children develop confidence and resilience.

By embracing positive parenting, we create a loving foundation for our children, empowering them to grow into happy, compassionate individuals. After all, a child who feels loved and understood will always bloom in the warmth of care and guidance.
